Working out your options!

Organisations in this guide can help you with a wide range of issues that you may be experiencing as a result of finishing school, or leaving school before you complete year 12, such as:

- What are my options when I leave school?
- How do I do an apprenticeship?
- How can I get to TAFE?
- How can Services Australia help me?
- Am I ready for work?
- How do I apply to do a course at University?
- Who can I talk to about all of this?

All of these are not easy questions. It can sometimes be difficult going through this process by yourself. There are, however, many helpful people willing to lend a hand in helping you to make the right decision for your future.

Before you leave or finish school, it is a good idea to discuss your options with your school's careers and pathways practitioners or a representative from your school's student wellbeing teams, especially if you feel you need more advice and support. Use this guide as a starting point to gain advice and assistance to help you work out your options.

If you would like to access this guide online, please visit the Hume Whittlesea Local Learning and Employment Network website at <http://www.hwllen.com.au> and go to the 'Resources' page to view or download a copy.

Good luck on your career journey!

YOUR EDUCATION AND TRAINING OPTIONS: SCHOOL BASED

Victorian Certificate of Education (VCE)

VCE can take you in many different directions after school and is a great choice if you prefer learning in a classroom environment and know you might want to go to university right after school. Completing the VCE can give you an ATAR score, offering a direct pathway to university.

VCE can prepare you for:

- university
- an apprenticeship or traineeship
- further education and training
- going straight into the workforce.

More information about the VCE can be found on the Victorian Government website:

About the Victorian Certificate of Education | vic.gov.au

VCE Vocational Major (VCE VM)

VCE Vocational Major is a two-year applied learning program that's part of the VCE. The VCE VM is a great choice if you prefer to learn in a real-world environment and don't need an ATAR.

Your teachers will assess your progress through a range of activities. Your only exam is the General Achievement Test (GAT) (Part A only). VCE VM subjects don't receive a study score, so they won't count towards an ATAR.

The VCE VM will help you prepare for:

- an apprenticeship or traineeship
- further education and training
- university, through alternative entry programs
- going straight into the workforce.

More information about the VCE VM can be found on the Victorian Government website:

About the VCE Vocational Major | vic.gov.au

Victorian Pathways Certificate (VPC)

The VPC is an inclusive, flexible option to complete your studies. It's designed for students who, for various reasons, aren't able or ready to complete the VCE or VCE VM.

The VPC is normally completed in Year 11 and 12, but it can be started earlier or be finished over a period longer than two years. You can work out the best time for you to start and finish the VPC with your school.

YOUR EDUCATION AND TRAINING OPTIONS: SCHOOL BASED

The coursework is delivered at a more accessible level than the VCE and VCE VM. Your teachers assess your progress through classroom activities.

The VPC is not an option for all students and will be recommended by your school to meet the needs of a specific student, decided in partnership with the student, parent and the school.

The VPC will help you prepare for:

- VCE and VCE VM
- entry-level VET, which could be at TAFE
- going straight into the workforce

More information about the VPC can be found on the Victorian Government website:

About the Victorian Pathways Certificate | vic.gov.au

Vocational Education & Training (VET) Delivered to School Students (VDSS)

VET helps you get started on your career path while you're still at school. It gives you practical skills in an industry you are interested in, which improves your employability. The skills you learn in VET can be applied in the workplace or as you keep studying towards a trade or qualification.

You can add VET to your studies while you're in Year 11 or 12. Some schools let students start VET in Year 10. Depending on the VET course, you'll either study at your school or at a nearby TAFE/training provider.

VET can be included in your:

- Victorian Certificate of Education (VCE)
- VCE Vocational Major (VCE VM)
- Victorian Pathways Certificate (VPC).

VET gives you credit towards completion of your VCE (which could be the VCE VM) or VPC. Some VET programs provide a score that contributes to your ATAR, if you're eligible for one.

Some VET options are available as a paid school-based apprenticeship or traineeship (SBAT), or as part of Structured Workplace Learning (SWL) - see below for further information about these options.

For more information about VET in schools, talk to your school career advisor, or visit the Victorian Government website:

How vocational education and training fits into Year 11 and 12 | vic.gov.au

YOUR EDUCATION AND TRAINING OPTIONS: SCHOOL BASED

VTAC

The Victorian Tertiary Admissions Centre (VTAC) facilitates access to tertiary education and further study opportunities and pathways for learners in Victoria.

VTAC acts as a central application point to make the process of getting into a course easier and more efficient. VTAC manages applications and assessment for the Special Entry Access Scheme (SEAS) and scholarships programs offered by tertiary education providers.

Scholarships

Scholarships provide financial support to help students with the costs of tertiary education. Scholarships are awarded for many reasons. There is a wide range of access and equity scholarships, such as those to support students with financial disadvantage, difficult circumstances and the need to relocate for study. There are also scholarships for Indigenous Australians, community service and academic merit.

More information can be found on the Scholarships page of the VTAC website

Special Consideration and Special Entry Access Scheme (SEAS)

If there have been circumstances that have affected your study, you should consider putting in a special consideration application via VTAC's Special Entry Access Scheme (SEAS). SEAS is designed to make sure institutions get a sense of your full potential and it enables institutions to consider the circumstances you have experienced and their impact upon your studies when making selection decisions.

The Special Entry Access Scheme (SEAS) covers a range of access and equity programs offered by institutions. SEAS is a single application that is sent to all the courses you apply to.

More information can be found on the Special consideration and Special Entry Access Scheme \(SEAS\) page of the VTAC website

School-Based Apprenticeships or Traineeships (SBATs)

Some VET options are available as a paid school-based apprenticeship or traineeship (SBAT) while you do the VCE, VCE VM or VPC.

This option allows you to learn on-the-job as a part-time employee, while earning a training wage and working alongside qualified professionals. Many SBAT students continue employment as a full-time apprentice or trainee after finishing year 12.

For more information on SBATs, talk to your school career advisor or visit the Victorian Government website: School-Based Apprenticeships and Traineeships | vic.gov.au

Work Experience

Work experience is the short-term placement of secondary school students, generally during Years 9 and 10, with employers to provide insights into industry and the workplace.

It provides students with the valuable opportunity to:

- develop employability skills
- explore possible career options
- understand employer expectations
- increase their self-understanding, maturity, independence and self-confidence.

Students are placed with employers primarily to observe and learn – not to undertake activities which require extensive training or expertise.

Further information about Work Experience talk to your school career advisor or visit:

Work Experience: Resources | education.vic.gov.au

Structured Workplace Learning (SWL)

Structured Workplace Learning is on-the-job training that is available to students undertaking a VET program as part of their senior secondary studies.

Structured Workplace Learning provides students with the opportunity to integrate practical on-the-job experience and learning in the workplace with nationally recognised Vocational Education and Training (VET), undertaken as part of the VCE, the VCE Vocational Major, or the Victorian Pathways Certificate.

Structured workplace learning provides the opportunity for:

- enhanced skill development
- practical application of industry knowledge
- assessment of units of competency
- achievement of some learning outcomes
- enhanced employment opportunities.

For more information about SWL, talk to your school career advisor or visit:

Structured Workplace Learning: Overview | education.vic.gov.au

Head Start

Head Start combines secondary school education with an apprenticeship or traineeship. Head Start operates in 12 hubs across Victoria and is available in every Victorian government school.

Head Start coordinators are based in schools and support students to undertake school-based apprenticeship and traineeships (SBATs), aligned to the student's preferred pathway. The coordinator liaises with the school, student, parents, employers and training organisations while the student undertakes the SBAT.

Head Start aims to help students:

- complete their schooling
- remain at school and build numeracy and literacy skills
- increase their future employability and earning potential
- access quality VET courses with an approved training provider
- get the skills, confidence and knowledge needed to succeed in the workplace
- undertake paid employment to build the career they want.

Further information about Head Start talk to your school career advisor or visit:

Apprenticeships

An Australian Apprenticeship, commonly known as an apprenticeship or traineeship, is a learning pathway that combines paid on-the-job training and formal study with a Registered Training Organisation. They offer you the opportunity to study and earn an income while gaining a nationally recognised qualification, and they can be done full-time or part-time.

Apprentice Connect Australia

Apprentice Connect Australia Providers are a free national service. They are experts on apprenticeships and can give you tailored advice for your situation. You can't start an apprenticeship or hire an apprentice without an Apprentice Connect Australia Provider. They will help handle tasks such as finalising your training contract, finding the right Registered Training Organisation and guide you to understand which incentives you could claim.

How can they support me?

Apprentice Connect Australia Providers can help you by:

- Finding you an employer to get started as an Australian Apprentice if you haven't already found one
- Guiding you to find the right course and Registered Training Organisation for the career you want
- Getting your prior experience recognised by your Registered Training Organisation
- Making sure you know your rights as an apprentice
- Providing support and pastoral care to resolve any issues that may arise throughout your training
- Supporting you to claim any financial incentives that may be available
- Helping you to make changes or complete your apprenticeship
- Once you have started the process of becoming an apprentice your Apprentice Connect Australia Provider will keep in touch to check how things are going for you and your employer. If you ever need any support, they're available for you to call.

How can I get in touch?

The following page provides a list of local Apprentice Connect Australia Providers, or you can search for providers on the Australian Apprenticeships website:

Apprentice Connect Australia Provider | Australian Apprenticeships

If you want to become an apprentice, Apprentice Connect Australia Providers are the first point of contact to get started. They connect apprentices and trainees with employers, and support you throughout your apprenticeship. If you're already an apprentice and don't know who your Apprentice Connect Australia Provider is, call the Skilling Australia hotline on 1800 020 108.

Training Checklist for young people

The following checklist is a really useful resource that can help young people and their families or support people to ensure the best outcome when choosing a training course.

Answer all of these questions before choosing a training course and/or enrolling in one:

Things to consider	Find out the following:	<input checked="" type="checkbox"/>
The training provider must be registered to deliver the course they are providing.	Is the training provider registered and by which authority? Ask for the training provider's registration number, scope (what they are offering) and keep for your records. Information about Registered Training Organisations (RTOs), Training Packages accredited courses and qualifications can be accessed at www.training.gov.au or www.vrqa.vic.gov.au/StateRegister/Search.aspx/Search	<input type="checkbox"/>
Make sure the qualification is nationally recognised.	Is the qualification nationally accredited? For further information visit https://www.studyaustralia.gov.au/	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Does the person delivering training hold a TAE 40110 AND the appropriate industry accredited qualification?	<input type="checkbox"/>
Check if you require a specific license for this occupation.	Will I need a license to practice this occupation? For further information on licensing requirements visit: https://www.worksafe.vic.gov.au/resources/certification-licensing-and-qualifications-checklist	<input type="checkbox"/>
Check with the training provider what knowledge and skills the course will provide.	Obtain a list of course competencies (skills and knowledge)	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Is there Recognition for Prior Learning (RPL) into higher courses or complimentary studies?	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Does this qualification provide articulation into any Tertiary qualifications?	<input type="checkbox"/>
	What employment options will this training lead to and what are the real job prospects on completion? (Ask for examples and evidence).	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Are there any other requirements in addition to training to obtain a job in the related area?	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Does the training provider assist in finding employment for students upon completion of the course? Not a necessity but this can influence the choice of course and provider.	<input type="checkbox"/>

YOUR EDUCATION AND TRAINING OPTIONS: APPRENTICESHIPS & TRAINEESHIPS

Things to consider	Find out the following:	✓
Make sure the training is not affecting future studies.	Will this course affect further study options in the future? Ask for a written explanation (or chart) so you can easily see the implications, if any, this course has on your future study selections.	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Does this training preclude students from undertaking a traineeship/Apprenticeship in a related field or any other field?	<input type="checkbox"/>
Shop around for a course and training provider that meets your needs. (Continued over page...)	I have been told that there are no up front costs? Does this mean I am using a VET Student Loan? If so, when do I have to pay this back and will it be with interest?	<input type="checkbox"/>
	How many times can I use this loan? When does the full amount of the loan apply: when I start my course or when I finish my course?	<input type="checkbox"/>
	What if I do not finish – what is my debt?	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Is my “kit” included in these fees? (http://studyassist.gov.au is a good web-site to check. Remember: VET Student Loans must be paid back – they are NOT FREE!)	<input type="checkbox"/>
	What resources are provided as part of the course fee and what will students need to provide themselves? If undertaking tuition that requires a kit e.g. Hairdressing, Automotive, Engineering, Hospitality, Beauty etc., are students allowed to buy their own kits rather than the one provided by the course? Students can often buy the kits at a cheaper rate from wholesalers.	<input type="checkbox"/>
	What is the breakdown of costs? (Including final total cost of training and any additional fees on top of stated tuition)	<input type="checkbox"/>
	What is the training provider refund policy? Obtain a copy of the refund policy and make sure you understand the details. Will I still incur a debt?	<input type="checkbox"/>
	How will the course be delivered? (E.g. part time, full time, online, onsite, classroom). What support is available if online?	<input type="checkbox"/>

YOUR EDUCATION AND TRAINING OPTIONS: APPRENTICESHIPS & TRAINEESHIPS

Things to consider	Find out the following:	✓
Shop around for a course and training provider that meets your needs. (Continued from previous page...)	Ask whether training and/or assessment will be undertaken in a real workplace. If a simulated environment is to be used to replicate a workplace, consider how realistic the environment is. This may be critical when applying for a job or credit transfer.	<input type="checkbox"/>
	What are the hours of attendance and total hours of course delivery? Check this against nominal hours recommended on www.training.gov.au . (Beware of courses that offer low hours as these are often not recognised by relevant industries or employers. In most cases if you start at a higher qualification – you cannot then study something later at a lower qualification. If unsure start at the lower qualification and work up to the Diploma.)	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Is there flexibility in the course delivery? (E.g. early completion)	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Ask about the timetable, location of the training and assessments. How and where students are assessed? When are the certificates awarded to students? Does the certificate list the competencies? Is a Diploma a nationally recognised full qualification or does the term “Diploma” relate to the organisations own in-house recognition. (Sometimes organisations blend qualifications that are combinations of various certificates but are not a full nationally accredited qualification in their entirety). Very important to check this.	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Does the training provider provide any support services to students with non-English speaking backgrounds, disability aid, indigenous and/or financial assistance?	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Obtain feedback to gain insight from past students on the quality of training and if it assisted them in finding appropriate employment. (Check on-line forums like Whirlpool and others)	<input type="checkbox"/>
		<input type="checkbox"/>
		<input type="checkbox"/>

Things to consider	Find out the following:	✓
Be cautious about paying large sums of money up-front.	Before making any up-front payments or signing any documents for VET Student Loans, students should make sure the training provider is registered and the course offered meets their needs.	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Compare training charges for the course to other institutions. Does it seem right?	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Ask for a receipt on payment, check that it is correct and keep it in a safe place.	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Students may qualify for government subsidies (e.g. if holder of a Health Care/ Disability/VET affairs card). Check if you are eligible.	<input type="checkbox"/>
Read the contract.	Read the contract/enrolment form carefully before signing or paying any money.	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Ask the training provider to explain items you are unsure of and discuss the conditions of enrolment with family, friends, colleagues or teachers to clarify.	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Ensure you understand and agree with any cancellation and refund conditions.	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Do not commit to anything over the telephone.	<input type="checkbox"/>
	Remember, training is NOT free.	<input type="checkbox"/>

Gatehouse Centre is a department of the Royal Children's Hospital. It provides assessment, treatment and advocacy services where sexual abuse is known or suspected to have happened, or when problem or harmful sexual behaviours are a concern.

Why would a child or young person come to Gatehouse Centre?

- A child or young person may have told someone (you, a teacher, a friend, another relative, etc.) about an experience of sexual abuse.
- If you are a parent or carer and are concerned about the possibility that your child has been sexually abused
- If you are concerned that a child or young person may have been acting in a sexual manner either with other children or with themselves
- If you are a child or young person and:
 - someone has sexually abused you
 - someone has exposed you to pornography

 - you have witnessed sexually inappropriate content
 - you are worried you may have been sexually abused

A child or young person may come to Gatehouse Centre for an assessment of current concerns. Some children and young people go on to need treatment to assist and develop helpful ways of coping with the impacts of the abuse or concerning behaviours.

Banksia Gardens 21 Plus Driving Program

21Plus is a supportive program designed to help young people aged 21 to 25 overcome the obstacles they face in obtaining their driver's license. We recognize that these challenges can include insufficient identity documentation, limited access to vehicles or qualified drivers for practice and instruction, financial burdens related to license fees and testing, language or literacy difficulties, and the need for culturally safe support.

Which career path is right for you?

Leaving school is a confusing time for many young people. If you are not sure what you want to do as a career, you can begin by asking yourself some key questions which may help you to decide. Listing your answers may give you a clearer idea of what you want to do:

- What are your areas of interest?
- Do you have any particular skills?
- Have you done any work experience or volunteer work? Did you enjoy it?
- What sort of person are you? For example, indoor/outdoor, creative, good with your hands or literary?
- What do you want from your future employment? For example, a long-term career, training opportunities, money.
- Have you considered traineeships or apprenticeships? Are you at a stage where you can commit to an apprenticeship?
- Have you considered a TAFE or University course in your area of interest?

Career advisors and other career experts can help you work through these questions and develop a career plan.

Things you can do to develop a career path

There are many things young people can do to develop their career path. These include developing their skills, including soft skills to improve their employability, seek advice from career advisers or transition to work programs, undertake volunteer work. It would also be important to develop a routine with useful habits and activities, learn the art of networking, and familiarize themselves with online resources.

Develop your skills

Other things you can do to begin your professional journey is to undertake work placement, volunteer work or a training course that will improve your employability. Schools, government organisations, community organisations, social enterprises, family and friends could offer good advice on how to get a work placement, volunteer work or a training course.

For example:

Young people still at school

School-based career advisers provide information, advice and guidance to help young people still at school make realistic choices about their education, training and work. The help and advice they give include:

- Identifying options for suitable careers
- Preparing them to successfully move from school to further education, training or employment
- Finding work placements
- Advising on how to write a good resume and covering letter and assisting with the application process.

Young people who have left school

Programs such as Transition to Work and Reconnect support young people on their journey to enter employment or complete education (references to these programs can be found in this Guide). These types of services provide intensive, pre-employment support to improve the work-readiness of young people and help them into work (including apprenticeships and traineeships) or education.

You can visit the following web page to identify Transition to Work providers that can assist young people to build their skills, confidence and readiness to enter employment:

Transition to Work: Intensive employment assistance for eligible 15 to 24 year olds

Specifically, these providers will help people:

- Develop practical skills to get a job
- Connect with education or training
- Find and complete work experience placements
- Find job opportunities in the local area
- Connect with relevant local community services.

These providers are experienced at working with young people who have left school early or who have had difficulty entering employment after school. They also have strong links with employers, community services and schools in their local community.

Volunteering

Volunteering can be a great way to try new things and discover what you are passionate about. You can explore your interests by choosing an organisation that supports a cause you care about, and you can try out a range of roles to find a position that suits you.

Volunteering can also be a great stepping stone to paid employment. It can lead to new skills and work experience, and can be a great way to boost your self-esteem and confidence.

Working with other volunteers is also a great way to network. These new contacts may know of new job opportunities, and you might connect with people who can be a referee on your resume, and provide references when you are applying for jobs.

Some of the many benefits of volunteering include:

- Learning new skills
- Meeting people and making new friends
- Boosting employment and education prospects
- Helping others and making a difference in your community
- Increasing confidence and improving wellbeing
- Extending your network and community knowledge.

Develop other important skills (often referred to as soft skills)

While hard skills such as experience, training and qualifications that you include on your resume are essential qualities in the search for work, soft skills are every bit as important. Soft skills are personal attributes which allow you to work harmoniously with other people; things like the ability to problem-solve, friendliness, amiability and adaptability.

Get into a routine

It can be tempting to slip out of your daily routine after you leave school. Not answering to anyone, late nights, sleep-ins and lazy days on the couch can quickly become a habit, and one that's difficult to remove yourself from.

To prepare yourself for a life in the workforce, be sure to get out of bed by a reasonable time and fill your days with useful activities, such as undertaking other qualifications, searching for work or doing some voluntary work. Participating in sporting, recreational and/or arts-based programs are also productive ways to keep yourself connected and motivated.

Develop your network

Networking is an often overlooked part of finding a job. The Hume Whittlesea Local Learning and Employment Network offers a Structured Workplace Learning program which provides support to schools to help find work placements and on-the-job training for students.

Work placements provide opportunities to try out career choices before leaving school and develop contacts with potential employers. Other opportunities exist to engage with the world of work, through careers and opportunities fairs, mentoring, and real industry job interviews.

Looking for work

Helpful places to start looking for the job you want

Centrelink – Here you can register for a Job Seeker Identification Number (JSID), which lets you access the jobs on the touch screens. Just go to the counter and ask for a JSID.

Workforce Australia – Workforce Australia allows you to search and apply for jobs or find more information on pathways to employment.

Friends, relatives & acquaintances – Connect to the people you know and socialise with to find out whether there are any jobs available. It can often be easier finding work when you have connections in the industry.

Yellow pages/White pages – Pick up the phone and ring places that you would be interested in working at. The more you contact the better.

Internet – If you do not have the internet at home; local libraries, employment agencies & schools have internet access to check out employment sites.

Newspaper ads – The local paper is a good way to start.

Making contact by phone

Now that you have researched different jobs it is time to make contact. The following steps should help you. Have a practice before you actually get on the phone.

When contacting employers randomly, like those you have identified out of the Yellow Pages, ask the person who answers the phone to let you know the name of the manager in the department that you would like to work in. Then ask to be put through to their department.

After telling them who you are and why you are ringing them, ask if you can have an interview. Your next steps could include the following:

If you can't have an interview:

Ask if you could be interviewed for any future jobs that come up

Ask if they know of any other employers who are looking to fill any positions

Always ask permission to call back again in a couple of weeks to see if anything arises

If you can have an interview:

Ask for an interview time or suggest one yourself

Ask for the employer's details so you can ring them

DO YOU KNOW YOUR RIGHTS IN THE WORKPLACE?

Awards, Conditions and Pay Rates

There are rules about what people are entitled to, including the hours you work and how often you can have a break. Employers must provide their employees with at least the minimum entitlements for wages and conditions of employment. These entitlements are most often found in enterprise agreements or awards. Awards are legal documents that contain the minimum pay rates and conditions of employment, such as the number of working hours and annual leave entitlements. Enterprise Agreements, negotiated between a business and its employees, set out the terms and conditions for employees that it covers.

If an employee is not covered by either an award or enterprise agreement, they are entitled to receive the minimum wage and conditions as set out in the national minimum wage and the National Employment Standards.

If you have an enquiry or dispute about an award or enterprise agreement you can contact the Fair Work Commission: Phone: 1300 799 675, Website: www.fwc.gov.au

If you have an enquiry about your rate of pay or your entitlement, you can contact the Fair Work Ombudsman: Phone: 13 13 94, Website: www.fairwork.gov.au

Discrimination

The role of the Victorian Equal Opportunity and Human Rights Commission is to protect and promote human rights in Victoria. They provide information about Victoria's equal opportunity and human rights laws and can help resolve complaints about discrimination, sexual harassment, victimisation, racial and religious vilification, and change or suppression practices.

Unfair Dismissal

Unfair dismissal is when an employee is dismissed from their job in a harsh, unjust or unreasonable manner. If you think you have been unfairly dismissed, you can contact the Fair Work Commission to see if you are eligible to apply for unfair dismissal. You must contact the Commission as soon as possible, as employees have to apply within 21 days of the dismissal taking effect.

DO YOU KNOW YOUR RIGHTS IN THE WORKPLACE?

Unions

A union is an organisation that protects the rights of workers in an industry and gives support to people who are being treated unfairly in their workplace. One of the most important roles of a union is to ensure the health and safety of workplaces by calling out poor working conditions, advocating the rights and interests of workers and ultimately working together, with employees, to create a safer working environment for everyone. Unions help to give people a stronger voice at work, so they can receive the treatment they deserve from their employer.

Joining a union gives you more power and say in your working conditions and strengthens your ability to fight back against unfair treatment, while protecting your safety and job security. Unions can represent a group of workers and negotiate with employers. This gives you more support when you have problems at work, or if you are negotiating for better working conditions or higher pay.

All workers in Australia – part-time, full-time, casual, temporary, apprentice, trainee or contract – can join a union.

More information about unions can be found on the Australian Unions website.

The union that you should join will depend on which field of work you get into. For more information about unions that represent apprentices visit the links below:

Superannuation

Superannuation, or 'super', is money put aside by your employer over your working life for you to live on when you retire from work. Super is important for you, because the more you save, the more money you will have for your retirement.

For most people, your employer pays money – 'contributions' – into a super account for you. They pay these contributions on top of your salary and wages.

All employers in Australia must receive superannuation except:

- Employees under 18 years old who work less than 30 hours per week
- Employees who are paid less than $450 (before tax) within any calendar month
- Employees over 70 years old
- Employees who do domestic work less than 30 hours per week.

There are also other groups of employees who are not covered.

If you have never signed a form to join a super fund, and you are eligible to get super, the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) can get the money you're owed, or it can get the employer to start to pay it.

Contact:

Further information about superannuation can be found on the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) website:

Or phone the Superannuation Hotline:

Writing a job application cover letter

When you are writing a job application letter - also known as a cover letter - don't feel anxious. While it is an important part of the application process, people never land a job, or lose one, on the strength of their cover letter. The resume is far more important. If the ad doesn't ask for a cover letter, it is safer to include one.

How to write a job application letter

Make sure you include the name of the application contact, if it is provided in the ad. If not, try calling the organisation to find out. Where you don't know the name and can't find out, you can write: "Dear HR Manager".

The main mistakes people make with a covering letter are:

- The letter is too long and wordy - try to keep it to one page.
- Explaining where and when you saw the ad. There is no need.
- Introducing new information not included in the resume. The covering letter may elaborate on information contained in the resume but should not introduce new material, unless it is of a personal nature. For example, "please note I will be relocating to Adelaide in November".
- Failing to focus on what matters to the reader. The letter should contain what the reader needs to know, not what you want to tell them. For example, you may speak 5 languages, but if it is not relevant for the job, there is no need to include this interesting fact.
- Focusing only on the 'soft' skill (personality) rather than the 'hard' (factual) ones. You should do both but mainly hard.
- Using overly formal language. For example, for your 'perusal' – it can appear stilted, depending on the role.
- Setting the document out like an old-fashioned letter. There is no need for your home address in the top right-hand corner etc. No one is posting anything.

Don't be afraid of writing a cover letter that is simple and different. Make it easier for the reader to connect your experience and their needs. Your letter can contain a short, punchy list of relevant qualifications, skills and experience. You can write simply "I can offer you:" followed by a list that reflects what the reader wants noted in the ad and/or job description.

For example:

I can offer you:

- Two years of hands-on experience serving customers at a Coles checkout and deli.
- Strong communication skills, and ability to organise and pay attention to detail
- Proficiency in Word and Excel
- First Aid Level 2 Certificate (Completed in January 2023)

Many people 'sign' the letter in a cursive font. This is far preferable than printing, signing and scanning. If you can scan your signature as a clear picture file and insert it into the letter, then use that, otherwise a cursive font is probably better than a blank unsigned space.

Dear Ms. Chapman,

Re: Operations Assistant, Position No: 2019/035

I would like to apply for the position of Operations Assistant at Lightning Logistics. I have a clear understanding and appreciation of the requirements of this position. In support of my application please find attached my Resume.

In December 2023 I successfully completed a Certificate III in Transport and Distribution – Warehousing and Storage at Kangan Institute. Since finishing this course, I have been working on a short term contract as an Operations Assistant at A&S Transport Distributors. My contract comes to an end next month and I am now looking for full-time employment.

While undertaking my Victorian Certificate of Applied Learning (VCAL), I have been able to complement my studies by gaining practical experience in the workplace. I have completed a round of Structure Workplace Learning placement with the Whittlesea Transport Group. The demands of the above positions required skills, knowledge, experience and personal qualities which match those I would bring to the role, including:

- Capacity to effectively prepare paperwork and administrative tasks
- Sound skills in organising and paying attention to detail
- Problem-solving, such as handling any emergency with tact
- Ability to prepare spreadsheets detailing diverse activities.

I am a self-starter and excel at documentation, scheduling, and inventory control. I am also highly competent in the use of MS Office and QuickBooks and adapt quickly to new programs. As part of the team at Lightning Logistics, I hope to provide exceptional operations support for all your staff and executive leadership.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss the role in more detail.

Yours sincerely,

Writing a resume

Your resume provides a brief summary of your personal details and what you have done. It needs to be short, clear and accurate. Your resume, which is also known as your Curriculum Vitae (CV) is the most important document when applying for a job. It doesn't matter how qualified you are, or how much experience you have – if your resume is poorly presented or badly written, you will have problems getting the job you want – or even an interview. Taking the time to work on your resume is really important.

What is the purpose of a resume?

Your resume is a marketing tool. It needs to demonstrate:

- That you are employable
- How you would be able to meet the job and the organisation's requirements
- That you have the right experience and skills
- That you have the right level of professionalism for the job.

How long should your resume be?

There is no set length for a resume. A resume varies in length depending on your experience and education. If you haven't worked much before, one or two pages is best, but three pages is okay if you've got a lot of study and work behind you. Make sure you don't provide unnecessary words or information on your resume. If your resume is only one page, as long as it's well-presented it might get better results than a two-page resume full of unnecessary information.

How should you order your resume?

Generally, it's always good to present the information on your resume in the following order:

1. CONTACT DETAILS:

Make sure you include your name, email address and a contact phone number on your resume. You don't have to include your home address, although sometimes employers request that you fill a separate employment form where you are asked to include your home address.

2. EDUCATION:

Your educational history needs to show your educational qualifications. You always start with the highest level of education. For each qualification include the institution where you studied; the level completed and the years you took to complete the qualification (see the example of a resume on the following pages). If you have more than one qualification, repeat the next highest qualification, until you include all your qualifications.

3. EMPLOYMENT: When providing your employment history, start with your most recent job and go backwards from there. Identify the organisation you have worked; the position title; and the dates you worked there (see the example resume on the following pages).

HOW TO APPLY FOR A JOB

Under each job include a brief statement about the employer, at most two lines; your responsibilities; and one to three selected achievements.

4. INDUSTRY PLACEMENTS:

Here you include any Structured Workplace Learning placements and work experience you have undertaken. Identify the organisation you did the placement with; the role; and the period (see the example resume on the following page).

5. KEY SKILLS AND ABILITIES:

Your resume should include a list of skills and abilities that link your experience to the job you are applying for. If the job you are applying for was advertised, either the ad or the position description may provide a list of skills and experiences that are 'essential' for doing the job. It may also provide a list of 'desirable' skills and experience. You should respond to all the skills and experiences on the 'essential' list and as many as possible of those on the 'desirable' list.

When putting together this list, think of things you have done or learned to do as part of:

- Jobs you have done
- Your studies
- Any work placements and work experiences you have done
- Any voluntary work you have done.

For some examples of the kind of skills and abilities you might list, see the example resume on the following pages.

If you are applying for a job where the employer did not provide a job description, research the requirements of similar jobs on the Internet and use that as a guide.

6. PERSONAL QUALITIES:

If you haven't got much work experience, a list of personal qualities can be another way to demonstrate that you are the right person for the job. Things you could include in this section might be ways you can demonstrate that you are reliable, honest, trustworthy or quick to learn new things. You can include between three to five qualities, but make sure you don't include them instead of your key skills.

Check out this webpage to see a few of the things that employers are commonly looking for:

Employability skills | Job skills | Youth Central

7. FURTHER QUALIFICATIONS:

You may include having a Victorian Driver's License, Construction Induction Card, or a First Aid qualification.

HOW TO APPLY FOR A JOB

8. IT SKILLS:

List any proficiency you have in the use of software skills.

9. REFEREES:

Your resume should list two, or at the most, three referees. Your referee is someone who can tell the potential employer what you are like as a person and what you are like to work with.

Referees should be people that you have worked with before. You need to provide the name of your referees, the title of their position, name of their company, phone number, and email.

Always seek approval and gain permission from your referees to ensure that they are happy to take on this role and for you to share their contact details.

Addressing the Key Selection Criteria

Being able to respond to Key Selection Criteria (KSC) removes a major roadblock to applying for jobs. Many people miss out on a good opportunity because they don't put in the time to get their resume up to date or to adequately address the KSC.

Usually, there are two variations of KSC: a shorter 'cover letter' version and a longer version where the KSC are required to be addressed separately.

Addressing the Key Selection Criteria: The cover letter version

Some employers list the KSC for the role but say that it is not necessary to address them in a separate document. The employer asks only for a cover letter (also known as a covering letter) and a resume. However, you should always address the criteria in the cover letter and it should be much shorter.

In a cover letter version you should draw the reader's attention to the examples briefly. These examples should then be listed in more detail on your resume.

The structure of the Cover Letter

To write a cover letter where the KSC are provided but not required to be addressed separately, you will need to provide a list of general offerings, then a section addressing the KSC very briefly.

The following page provides an example of how to address the Key Selection Criteria in a cover letter:

Dear Ms. Chapman,

Re: Operations Assistant, Position No: 2019/035

Thank you for the opportunity to apply for this role. I am a person with the skill, knowledge, and personal qualities which match those required by this role. My resume demonstrates that I can meet the Key Selection Criteria, including:

Qualifications: I successfully completed a Certificate III in Transport and Distribution – Warehousing and Storage at Kangan Institute.

Relevant experience: Since finishing the above course, I have been working on a short term contract as an Administration / Operations Assistant at A&S Transport Distributors where I am undertaking, reception and general office duties, sea, air and road job registrations, freight invoicing and maintaining warehouse organisation. While completing a round of Structure Workplace Learning Placement with the Whittlesea Transport Group, I was involved in helping floor staff to find items, and providing customer service.

Customer service skills: At A&S Transport Distributors, where I have been working for one and half years, I have developed an excellent knowledge of the products and built a good relationship with all my customers. I listened to them to understand their needs, took time to inform them accurately, and kept them happy.

Ability to plan and organise: My referees will be able to confirm that I have high quality planning and organisational skills. At my current job, I always listed on paper what I wanted to accomplish for the day, rank my to-do list in order of priority, and set my break time. This allows me to remember the things I need to do, to achieve the tasks allocated to me and get the results my employer needs.

I am a self-starter and excel at documentation, scheduling, and inventory control. I am also highly competent in the use of MS Office and QuickBooks and adapt quickly to new programs. Addressing the Key Selection Criteria: The full version

Some job applications, especially for government positions, professional appointments and larger businesses, require you to address the Key Selection Criteria (KSC). The KSC lists the qualifications, skills and experience you need to have to get the job. It is used by the employer to shortlist applicants for the interview process. You must satisfy each one of the criteria.

If you need to address the KSC, then this is likely to be the most important document in your application. KSC responses need to be accompanied by a cover letter and your resume.

To address the KSC, you will need to obtain the application package including the selection criteria from the employer. Usually you will also need to get the position description to fully understand the job requirements. Explain in writing how well you meet the essential and desirable criteria.

To be considered for an interview, you need to show that you meet the essential criteria. You need to show how you meet each criterion individually, giving specific examples of how you have used that skill or quality, when you did this, and an explanation for the result of utilising that action.

If you are addressing the KSC and do not have the required skills, qualifications or quality, don't leave it blank. Explain with examples, how you have been able to undertake similar challenges in the past and that you can quickly gain the new skill that is required.

Doing it well can take some time and thought. You need to be prepared and not leave it to the last minute. You should always include a covering letter of application along with a resume. Examples drawn on in the KSC should also be listed in your resume.

TIP: Employers are often inundated with applications, so anything that makes reading your application easier or makes it stand out will be to your benefit. Use dot points to summarise detailed information.

The structure for addressing the Key Selection Criteria

1. Provide a context:

This should be a broad statement that you can satisfy the criteria in your own context. For example:

- Throughout my year and a half of working as an Administration/Operations Assistant, I have demonstrated my ability to deliver jobs on time. Or:
- I can draw on several examples to demonstrate my ability to ...

2. Provide your first example:

This should be your best example. For example:

In my role as Administration/Operations Assistant at A&S Transport Distributors, I was responsible for completing air, sea and road registrations within seven days. I developed an Excel spreadsheet to prioritise each job. This allowed me to complete all registration on time and ensure all the parties were satisfied with the outcome.

3. Provide another example:

This should be your next strongest, specific example. Try not to repeat two similar examples.

E.g.: Other examples of my ability to deliver jobs on time include finding items within a very short time and therefore assisting floor staff to have their orders ready within the specified time.

Ensure you check your responses and make sure you answer every part of the KSC. Ask someone else to check each criterion has been met fully. On the following page is a sample of KSC that might be used for an administration/operations assistant position, followed by examples of how to address them.

The following page provides an example of how to address Key Selection Criteria in a separate document:

Key Selection Criteria

Operations Assistant, Position No: 2019/035

Lightning Logistics

Essential:

1. Experience working with Microsoft Office programs including Word, Excel and Outlook

My skills in this area are well developed as my experience in an administrative capacity includes support to my supervisor and a team of three other staff.

Throughout my year and a half work history, and while completing my VCAL certificate, I have been required to utilise the range of Microsoft Office Software in completing my assignments, and the provision of administrative assistance to my supervisor and team.

This includes word processing, data entry within Excel spreadsheets on a daily basis, electronic mail-outs and assisting with document formatting. My other responsibilities include assisting with organising a Friday afternoon happy hour. I assist by contributing ideas for this event and managing content within an excel spreadsheet of beverages, nibbles and finding a venue.

2. Strong organisational and problem-solving skills

As a competent Administration/Operations Assistant, I pride myself on my strong organisational and problem-solving skills. Some of the basic skills I use each day include the ability to: answer incoming calls and queries; organise office maintenance; meeting and greeting customers; track accounts; cross reference documents for information and accuracy; manage filing systems and implement electronic mail outs. This requires a high level of personal discipline, time management and ability to prioritise and manage a heavy workload.

Desirable:

1. Ability to work in a team

I am a resourceful team player who develops good friendships with colleagues and I consider myself to be well respected by those around me. Strengths I possess include building trusting relationships and the ability to develop a connection with different staff, including those from a different cultural background.

In my current role as Administration/Operations Assistant at A&S Transport Distributors, I am responsible for the management of four staff electronic calendars. In this regard, I play a key role within the team environment and have established an excellent relationship with the staff. I am committed to being a positive contributor to this team and my performance appraisal has reflected my success in this regard.

TIP: Try to avoid sounding 'perfect'. Although the employer wants to know you can do the job, try not to reduce your credibility saying things like 'I always contribute positively to the team'. Rather, say: 'I am committed to being a positive team member and contributor'.

Interview tips

Preparing for an interview

Learn as much as you can about the job you are applying for and what it involves. This is so you are really confident about why you are going for the position and you are aware of what is involved.

Learn something about the company by looking up their website. Doing this makes you knowledgeable about the company as a whole. Find out things like:

- What does the company produce or what services do they deliver?
- Do they have different departments and what do they do?
- Have an idea of where the company is situated.

Be prepared to show the employer how they can benefit from hiring you. Here you basically need to sell yourself and your abilities. An employer is not going to hire someone who is unsure about what they can do. Be confident and enthusiastic about the job you are going for.

Prepare a list of questions you can ask at the end of the interview. This shows that you are interested in the position and want to know more. You may want to ask questions specific to the job you are going for and/or clarify anything you did not understand, like how your job fits into the company as a whole etc.

Always arrive about 15 minutes before your interview time. This will show your potential employer that you are organised and eager. You do not want to be late or look rushed for an interview. On the other hand, don't be too early either.

Your appearance at an interview

The way you look at an interview can often help an employer decide whether they want to hire you or not.

DO:

- ✓ Plan what you are going to wear the night before your interview. This will give you the time to carefully choose what you are going to wear. Ask a family member for their opinion.
- ✓ Be careful with your choice of clothing. You want the employer to focus on what you are saying, not on what you are wearing. Be conservative in what you wear, particularly the colours you choose. Don't be adventurous in what you choose to wear for an interview.
- ✓ Be well groomed. You need to be neat and tidy in all areas of your appearance, including hair, clothes and body odour.
- ✓ Organise your trip well before leaving. Make sure you check bus/train timetables or a Street Directory the day before, so you know exactly when and where you are going. If you can do a practice run to the company, even a day before the interview, that's a bonus. It saves time in getting lost on the actual interview day.

DON'T:

- ✗ Chew Gum
- ✗ Have the smell of smoke on your breath or clothing
- ✗ Be negative about any aspect of the company, for example about employers past or present, required work or working hours.

Handy Hint: Employers hire on 65% attitude and 35% skill. This means that even though you may not have exactly what is needed for the job, if your body language and behaviour shows that you are enthusiastic and eager to learn, you will probably find yourself employed quicker than you think.

Commonly asked interview questions

Practice answering the questions below. They will help you to be prepared for your interview.

- Tell us a bit about yourself
- What made you apply for this job?
- Why do you think you want to work here?
- What skills or knowledge do you have that relate to this area?
- How well do you work under pressure?
- What do you know about this job?
- How do you think you work as part of a team?
- Why did you leave school?
- What do you expect from this job?
- When are you available to start work?
- Why should we hire you?
- How would you describe yourself as an employee?

Be positive in all your answers. Don't recall negative experiences of school or work, even if you were asked to leave. For example:

"School is not the place for me to be at this point. I believe I would be performing far better in the workplace because I am a really hard worker and this is where I want to be."

Handy hint: Practice your speech and body language in front of the mirror so you know how you look to others.

What to do during the interview

- Introduce yourself to the interviewer(s) and shake hands if appropriate in the situation.
- Sit only when asked to.
- Be relaxed but not too relaxed. Look alert and interested in what's going on around you.
- Avoid being over familiar with the interviewer(s).
- Make sure you maintain eye contact with your interviewer(s). Where possible, look at all the interviewers while answering questions.
- Answer questions clearly and to the point. Be sure not to speak for too long.
- Never interrupt the interviewer before they finish asking the question.
- Ensure your body language displays confidence. Little things like sitting up straight, smiling, not fidgeting and looking at the people you are speaking to, are always looked upon favourably by an employer.
- Organise to contact the employer in a few days regarding the job.
- Always thank the interviewers for their time and tell them how you look forward to hearing from them. Shake their hands at the end if appropriate in the situation.

The STAR interview technique

The STAR interview format is a behavioral interviewing technique employers use during hiring. "STAR" stands for Situation, Task, Action, and Result.

The method is designed to bring a structured and focused approach to interviewing and primarily focuses on a candidate's working styles, behavioral attributes, and competencies.

STAR method interview questions usually focus on asking candidates for concrete examples of situations they've encountered in their past experiences – either in a work or educational setting. Questions typically start with phrases like "Describe a situation where," "Tell me about a time you had to," or "Share an example of when you."

The best answers will include clear, concise information covering the following:

- Situation:
The candidate describes the situation or context they were in, explaining the circumstances or challenges they faced.
- Task:
The applicant explains the specific task(s) they had to achieve in the situation described. This helps the interviewer to better understand the candidate's roles and responsibilities in the scenario.

HOW TO APPLY FOR A JOB

- Action:
The candidate describes the actions they took or decisions they made to work through their tasks and goals – including how they overcame any specific challenges. This gives the interviewer insight into the candidate’s problem-solving abilities, working style, decision-making abilities, and more.
- Result:
The applicant defines the outcomes and results of their actions. These could be either positive or negative. They help show the interviewer the impact or value the candidate added to the task or how they rectified a negative outcome. This stage in the method provides an excellent opportunity for candidates to discuss any quantifiable impact they made – for instance, increasing sales by 2%.

The underlying idea behind the STAR format is that it helps employers assess how candidates have responded to different situations at work – which is a reliable indicator of how they’ll handle similar scenarios in the future.

If there are no jobs available, on your next point of contact:

- Mention your interest in part time jobs.
- Ask them if they know of any other places that are looking for employees.
- Ask for feedback as to why you didn’t get the job. This may assist you to improve for your next interview.
